

The present invention relates to a method of making [a] formaldehyde free, fibrous, nonwoven mats for use in facing ceiling panels and other applications where similar requirements exist, and these mats.